Nothing in the advices from Mexico City gave the administration officials cause for particular anxiety and it was the general conviction that a lull in the diplomatic exchanges would be beneficial to all concerned.

The president, it is known, feels that good may come from an opportunity for the position of this government, as announced in his message of Wednesday, to "sink in."

Mr. Lind, it was asserted, had been instructed from Washington to continue to act as his own discretion, as to whether he should wait developments at Vera Cruz or return to Mex-

The fact that the Mexico City officials in their second note of reply had receded from the demand for an exchange of accredited ambassadors. it was pointed out, left an opening for future moves.

The view was expressed that the Gamboa reply to the second American note might actuate Mr. Lind to address a third note to the officials of the Huerta government.

Before deciding to go to Cornish, President Wilson discused the situation at length with cabinet officers and arrangements were made whereby he could be notified at once of any developments.

Should anything happen to require Tuesday he planned to return at a moment's notice.

Mr. Lind's failure to return to the capital is taken to indicate Washington and Mexico are agreed there is no good to be accomplished by the trip. It is considered here that the next move must be made by Washington.

State Policies Make Great Change In

Washington, Aug. 30.-{Special}-Political divisions in the United States are sharp and often lead to tangles in governmental affairs, but in dealing with foreign questions it seems that the people have determined to be a unit. While there may be differences about the policy pursued by the chief executive when the policy is once determined, all the people stand ready to support the president regardless of

That happened when President McKinley was dealing with Cuba, although the truth of history will show that the Democratic party, aided by a wing of the Republican party, forced the war with Spain when the administration was doing everything it could to prevent war. However, our people were more warlike then than they are war department, is the prediction of now. If there had been no Spanish officers and prominent citizens of the war, a war with Mexico could not be prevented at this time.

They See It Differently. Politics makes a great difference in the way tariff changes are viewed. Men from Colorado, Nevada and Montana do not think the tariff is going to affect the sugar and wool industries by placing these products on the free list. Men from Wyoming, Utah and Idaho believe these industries will be sadly crippled if not ruined by the new tariff. All six states are alike in their situation and environment.

The Brainerd charter commission citizens of Brainerd to consider. Day. They have met on the average of once a week during this time.

The charter which will be presented to the people is the latest idea Goedderz. of municipal government and is commonly known as the "Business Manager plan." The initiative, referendum, recall and non partisan election is provided for.

The councilmen when elected will select a competent man who has had a wide experience in municipal affairs to be the Business Manager. He will be the sole executive. The council will be the legislative body and will direct the Business Manager. This keeps a competent man on the job all the time and at no greater cost than the present sys-

The charter will be presented in full at a very early date and a copy placed in every home in

The voters should withhold judgment of the charter until they have a copy and have read it carefully. The commission has considered Brainerd and her needs carefully in the forming of the charter and they believe that a careful reading will cause the voters to ratify it.

It should be added that a large number of charters were considered and the best features drawn from them for our own city. The charter WITH $1,700 IN HIS POCKETS will doubtless be submitted within 90 days.

There was also a petition presented to the commission asking for an amendment to the present charter which would abolish the Water and wise to submit this separately and not confuse the issue.
